THE WHY OF WORK; ALIGNING PASSION AND STRENGTHS TO GET THE JOB DONE

Staff usually understand what they do for work, but can everyone articulate the “why” of their work? This session will help individuals identify their own personal strengths both external and internal and how to apply those strengths to the work they do and find work meaningful. We will outline steps for retention and sustainability using the four basic leadership practices that will empower staff to define the WHY of the work which in turn creates buy-in and loyalty for all levels of staff.

CONFRONTING MENTAL HEALTH NEEDS IN SENIOR CARE

In this session, an attorney who has counseled senior care and housing providers for nearly 30 years will cover this difficult issue of confronting mental health in senior care. She will identify some of the unmet needs and vulnerabilities of senior care residents with mental health issues, and underscore the need to assess residents and care plan for their mental health needs. She will also describe a risk management approach to help members balance their liability concerns with their duty and desire to provide residents with effective care.

Pamela S. Kaufmann, Partner, Hanson Bridgett LLP

Pam dedicates her practice to the representation of senior housing and care providers and tax-exempt organizations. Pam's clients in the senior housing and care field look to her for advice regarding issues large and small from development, operations, risk management, and licensing to joint venturing, affiliations, mergers and acquisitions.
